

Karen Palmer

425 456 7634

palmerk@bsd405.org

COURSE: Tech Prep Interior Design

UNIT: Designing Interior Environments

---

LESSON Title: Principles of bathroom design

Lesson Introduction:

Middle layer introduction...

Principles of bathroom design- overhead or PowerPoint presentation

---

Objectives: What will the students learn...

Middle layer ...

"Explain the basic principles for designing efficient bathrooms." Page 495 textbook

Standard 11.6 Evaluate client's needs, goals, and resources in creating design plans for housing, interiors, and furnishings.

---

Assessment: How will I know they know...

Example text here...

Create a scenario and design a bathroom to fit client needs. See rubric.

---

Resources and Materials: What will I need to prepare in advance for this lesson?

Homes and Interiors (Glencoe)
Unit 6 Designing Interior Environments
Chapter 22 Kitchens, Laundry Areas & Baths
Pages 519-523

Teacher copy of "principles of bathroom design" notes.
Common blueprint symbols and abbreviations
Standard clearances spaces
Bathroom/bedroom templates
Floor plan ¼ inch graph paper
Handout for students

---

Instructional Activities: What will the lesson look like from beginning to end? What will I be doing during each lesson element? What will the students do during each lesson element?

1. Start with basic information from teacher's notes. May be applied to overhead transparencies, SmartBoard, or PowerPoint presentation.
2. Students fill in handout.
3. Read and discuss textbook information. (Also, Housing, Interiors, and Furnishings Chapter 24.
4. Read and discuss handout for application. (Bathroom rubric)
5. Show good and bad examples on the overhead of past work.
6. Students follow assignment to design a bathroom for a client.

---

Enrichment/Remediation: What will I do if students finish early or need more of a challenge? What will I do if students need to be more teaching?

Example text here...

Find a picture of a bathroom in a magazine.
Critique the bathroom using the rubric for their scenario.

FCCLA component:
A Better You project